100-YEAR-OLD KALYANI GETS NEW LEASE OF LIFE

Students of Seshadripuram Degree College braved reptiles and brambles to restore the water body at Jakkanahalli, which was lying in a state of neglect

The kalyani had become home to many reptiles and insects, as it was covered with weeds. So we ensured the safety of the students first and arranged all necessary equipment needed for the cleanliness

—Raghavendra R, NSS programme officer

• Karthik K K

The kalyani (temple tank) at Jakkanahalli village, Srirangapatna taluk in Mandya, is now sporting a fresh look, thanks to the efforts of college students who took up the initiative to restore the tank that was lying in a state of neglect for long. Over 60 students from the National Service Scheme (NSS) unit of the Seshadripuram Degree College were part of the initiative.

This more than a century-old kalyani – said to have been built by erstwhile Mysuru kings – had completely dried up and become polluted. The kalyani near the famous Chamundeshwari temple in the village was once a lifeline to many villagers. Temple priests too took water from the same tank to offer puja to the presiding deity. But over the past few years, the tank turned into a swamp that was covered with weeds. The entire place looked like a dumping yard and stayed in the same forgotten state.

Raghavendra R, NSS programme officer of the Seshadripuram college, was informed about this by a villager. Raghavendra and assistant programme officer Muruli TM took the help of Shivamurthy, a villager, and gathered more information and decided to involve students to revive the tank as part of community service.

"NSS aims to develop a student's personality through community service. So we involved NSS volunteers of our college and decided to clean up this kalyani and make it fully functional again," said Raghavendra, adding that it was not easy for the students to get down and clean them. "The kalyani had become home to many reptiles and insects, as it was covered with weeds. So we ensured the safety of the students first and later arranged all necessary equipment needed for the cleanliness. The students enthusiastically took this uphill task and relentlessly cleaned the kalyani." After the cleaning process, the students also ensured to fill the tank to the brim with fresh water.

The NSS volunteers comprised students from first, second and final year B.Com, BCA and BBA degrees. According to Sachin, a second year B.Com student, they were divided into different groups for the activity. "While one cleared the weeds, others got down to clean the muck that had collected in the kalyani. Others did door-to-door awareness campaigns and informed the villagers to keep the kalyani clean and spread awareness about cleanliness and hygiene. This was a great learning lesson for us and gave a chance to all students to contribute towards society," he said.

Protection of Ancient Monuments: The NSS Unit rejuvenated two ancient structures to its pristine form

Committed to protect ancient monuments of national importance, the NSS unit of Seshadripuram Degree College restored two ancient structures at Jakkanahalli, Srirangapatna Taluk. This was done during the special camp at Jakkanahalli. At first, a dilapidated yet extant ancient tank entangled with vines and undergrowth were rejuvenated. Secondly, a tank in shambles were restored and the pavement to the tank were constructed.

Outcomes:

Students understood the historical significance of the place

Students perceived the architectural structures and due to the collaboration with archaeological department they understood how to employ scientifically the methods of restoration and conservation.

CELEBRATION OF NSS DAY: GIVING RELIEF TO THE DOWNTRODDEN

On a mission to lend a helping hand to the distressed, the NSS unit paid a visit to chiguru - a home for the elderly and specially abled on 24 September 2019. The volunteers provided essential items to them and spend few hours with them giving joy and happiness. This was done on NSS day. As enshrined in the core values of the NSS, respect should be shown to the elders. This has become the watchword for the NSS Unit since its inception. Moreover, the NSS volunteers served food with happiness.

Outcomes:

- By this program, a volunteer understands different segments of the society
- The student also understands the great social divide
- The student masters piety and the very notion of Charity.

A THREE-DAY CYCLE RALLY ORGANISED TO PROPAGATE TO SAVE FORESTS

The NSS unit with an intent to conserve forest organised a threeday cycle rally starting from Bangalore to Nagarhole in Chamrajnagar District. The NSS volunteers braced up for the rally at seshadripuram College, Bangalore and it was flagged off by Mr. M Gowtham Kumar, Honourable Mayor, Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike. The volunteers in green attire symbolising nature thronged across Bangalore, Mandya District, Mysore and Nagarhole . On their arrival at Nagarhole, the volunteers enacted a street play propagating protection of Forests. In the street The volunteers vehemently decried tree felling and increasing rate of human intervention.

Outcomes:

- The Volunteers understood the notion of environmentalism
- Involvement in real life situations and social interaction
- Beyond abstract notions the volunteers were able to put ideas into practice
